ELM—$1.00 to $3.00 each.

NORWAY SPRUCE—For wind breaks and specimen planting—75c and up.

ORNAMENTAL SHRUBS

Shrubs and trees give the setting for your home, bringing out the attractive features of your house and concealing the unsightly objects. As a rule shrubs are planted close to the house to round out corners and make the pleasing effect of merging the house with the lawn. Small groups and borders should be placed by drives and along the edges of the lawn. Avoid straight, systematic arrangement except in hedges. Shrubs are ordinarily planted three feet apart; taller ones four. Large shrubs should be arranged for a background. Pretty combinations can be made that will have showy effects all season. Supplement your shrub plantings with flowering plants.

BARBERRY, JAPANESE—Individual bushes are dense, round, low-growing. Suitable for grouping or hedges, also as specimens—50c each; $4.00 for 10.

DEUTZIA — Several varieties, covered with clusters of white flowers in spring; grows low to medium—60c each.

DOGWOOD — Their brilliant bark and berries add a cheerful touch to shrub groups in winter. Medium tall—60c each.

FORSYTHIA or Golden Bell—Bright yellow flowers lining the slender branches appear before the leaves. Tall; adapted to lattice covering—60c each.

HONEYSUCKLE, TARTARIAN—A tall bush covered with small white or pink flowers in spring and red berries during the summer. Well adapted for filling large spaces and for background planting—70c each.

HYDRANGEA, SNOWBALL—Similar to ordinary Hydrangea, but well adapted to shady places—70c each.

HYDRANGEA, HARDY — A medium growing shrub. Planted in front of others as it is not a good specimen variety. Large balls of white flowers late in summer till frost. The dried flowers are used for winter bouquets—70c each.

GOLDEN ELDER—Yellow leaves give contrast in groups; tall—70c each.

KERRIA, JAPONICA—Dwarf to medium. Bright green bark and leaves with yellow flowers like buttercups—75c each.

LILAC—Purple and white. Well known. Good for backgrounds—60c each.

SYRINGA or MOCK ORANGE—Flowers resemble orange blossoms; very fragrant; flowers in May and June; medium tall—60c each.

SNOWBERRY—Medium growing. White berries during summer—60c each.

SNOWBALL—The well known, old fashioned bush—70c each.

SPIREA—The favorite shrub for planting around the house and lawn. It is pretty wherever you use it. Well adapted to nearly every condition. It presents a solid mass of white flowers every spring. Its graceful shape is pleasing throughout the season when it is not in flower—60c each; $5.00 for 10.

WEIGELA—Several varieties. Blossom all summer; medium and tall growing; very thrifty—75c each.

PRIVET, ENGLISH and IBOTA—A perfectly hardy plant for hedges that can be trimmed to any shape—$2.00 for 10; $15.00 per 100.

ROSES require a great deal of attention, but the results are well worth the effort. Bush $1.00 each. Climbing 80c each.
